A Worksheet for 'Toast for Tea'

Choose one of the scales from 'toast.grid' with which to compose a tune. You can play the notes on the grid or on any suitably pitched instrument.

1. Chant these words to yourself a few times:

I Like lots of but ter on my toast. (rest)

2. Make a tune for these words, starting on the blue note of your scale and ending on the green note.
3. Follow this with another phrase to the same words, this time starting on the green note and finishing on the blue note.
4. Continue with a third phrase to the following rhythm:

Yes, I do. Yes, I do.

If you can play the top notes of your scale (from the green note upwards), use these. If not, play the rhythm all on one note - the green one.

5. Round off your tune with a fourth phrase, starting on the green note and finishing on the blue note (it can be the same as the phrase you created at step 3, if you wish).
6. Replace these words with something better!! Better still, you could use this pattern for building phrases to create a new tune, from scratch, using words (and therefore, rhythms) of your own choosing.
